AM36 Final Exam

Due May 17th by 12pm (sorry, not extensions!)

I will be in the BH lounge on Wednesday May 17th between 11am and 12pm to collect your projects.

Most of us tend to find the textbook (for this course, and for any course) difficult to read. Somehow, lecture notes, summaries and the like seem to be more readable.

Your final project is to write up the material we covered in chapters 7, 10 and 11. This can be done in lecture note form, as a book, a power-point presentation or any form you wish (plays and musicals are acceptable, if you can get across the material in that way!). This form can be less formal than your text, but must include all the relevant information as well as examples. You may “borrow” from any source you wish – your text, other texts, the internet – but make sure you footnote everything.

I would recommend typing where there are many words, but this is not required. The project will be graded on:

- clarity
- completeness of content
- quality of explanations
- quality of examples
- attractiveness and presentation
- where relevant, creativity is a plus.

The aim of this project is to consolidate all your semester’s work into one document, and to provide a good review for you. This project should be fun.
